PART ONE
UNDERSTANDING DIAGNOSTIC ASSESSMENTS

1. INTRODUCTION

The diagnostic resource bank aims to improve the relationship between assessment and classroom instruction. Assessment for learning is the process of gathering information about a learner's learning from a variety of sources, using a variety of approaches, or 'assessment tools', and interpreting that evidence to enable both the teacher and the learner to determine where the learner is in his or her learning; where the learner needs to go; and how best to get there. Teachers can adjust instructional strategies, resources, and environments effectively to help all learners achieve grade specific outcomes only if they have accurate and reliable information about what their learners know and are able to do at a given time.

When findings of assessment results are used to improve classroom practice, learner performance in general can improve. The diagnostic assessment tests/questions are designed to fulfil three purposes of assessment namely to;

- reveal the misconceptions learners bring as prior knowledge to a class;
- measure the conceptual gains of a class as a whole; and
- identify concepts that are weak areas of understanding for the individual learner or as a class/grade.

A traditional multiple choice question (MCQ) provides little information about the learner's understanding of the concept/skill tested. The DBE has embarked on the design of diagnostic assessments using MCQs and assessment rubrics (for Languages) that are designed to assist teachers to diagnose learner misconceptions using the Pearson distractor rationale model as a basis for the classification of learner misconceptions. The diagnosis is also linked to the CAPS learning outcomes and skill acquisition.

MCQs designed for the diagnostic questions included in this package, include a breakdown of learners' understanding through the incorrect responses.All distractors are written not only to focus the attention of the teacher on those learners who are able to identify the correct response, but also to assist the teacher in identifying and understanding the misconceptions captured in the incorrect responses.

2. PURPOSE OF THE DIAGNOSTIC TEST ITEMS

This diagnostic resources should be used in conjunction with the requirements as stipulated in the CAPS document. It therefore does not replace the curriculum or the Annual Teaching Plan (ATP). The content therefore includes coverage from terms one to four. However, teachers may include questions from the resource bank into the ATP to facilitate assessment for learning. These diagnostic assessments/questions are a phase based assessment. It also includes questions from four grades.

There are questions set on the critical skills from the two earlier grades, the current grade and the next grade. The selection of questions from the four grades was done by looking at those concepts that were taught in the two earlier grades and were then extended in the next two grades as well.This would enable the teacher to identify at which specific grade the knowledge gap is.

The assessment guidelines per subject and grade have a detailed explanation of the topics/skills that are in this category. The spread of questions in the composite assessment is weighted to facilitate a phase based assessment and is broken down into the four composite grades as illustrated hereafter:

Table 1: Percentage spread of questions

	Spread of Questions
Weighting	±10%	±20%	70%
Grade 9	7	8	9

The purpose of including the content of the other grades is to diagnose the skill/concept acquisition at the earlier grade, the current grade as well as to ascertain whether the learner is ready to make the transition to the next grade. Once the teacher has identified the gaps in the conceptual knowledge/ skill acquisition it would be easier to design targeted intervention programmes to bring learners on par for the transition to subsequent grades/topics.
These diagnostic questions should be used as a tool for teachers to assess the strengths and weaknesses of learners for the purpose of designing teaching and learning strategies that will address the individual needs of the learner.

This assessment should not be used for grading a learner; as the intended purpose is to facilitate learning.

3. THE STRUCTURE OF THE DIAGNOSTIC TEST ITEMS

The diagnostic resource is divided into sections or questions. Questions are framed to direct teachers to possible misconceptions which could be as a result of an earlier grade knowledge deficit, erroneous conceptual knowledge or lack of comprehension. Each paper has a spread of the content areas and skills that span the entire phase and is extended into the next phase. The texts/topics that have been selected for the Languages questions indicate the concept/skill progression from one grade to the next.

MCQs are constructed in such a way that each distractor provides information on whether the learner has mastered the skill/concept or whether there is a misconception. The distractors are graded according to four levels of understanding. Levels one, two and three enlighten the teacher about the nature of the misconception. Level four is the correct response, see Table 3 for further clarity. Short questions are constructed to assess writing skills, mental computations, knowledge recall and application of rules or theorems. Longer responses are constructed so that thought process, writing skills and consolidation and application of content areas and concepts across the subject are consolidated to arrive at the intended response.

4. PROPOSED USE OF THE DIAGNOSTIC LANGUAGE ITEMS/QUESTIONS

4.1 Parts of the resource bank may be used independently at different intervals e.g. as revision activities, informal assessment activities and baseline assessments.

4.2 Certain questions, per skill assessed, may be selected from a section to compile a shorter activity.

4.3 Questions may be selected according to levels of difficulty and can be used to support learning according to different cognitive demands or be used to support progressed learners.

4.4 Diagnostic tests may also be used as a baseline assessment if administered prior to teaching a particular topic/skill/grade. A teacher may want to establish whether learners meet the basic skills and knowledge levels required to learn a specific topic or content aspect.
This will assist the teacher to know the learners' level of proficiency in a particular topic prior to lesson preparation.

4.5 The questions may be used at the beginning of a grade/phase to establish whether learners meet the conceptual knowledge for the new grade/phase.

1.1 The teacher should decide when, where and how the assessment may be used to enhance teaching and learning.

5. DESIGN

Table 2 lists and describes the types of errors that correspond to each of the four levels of understanding encapsulated in the language diagnostic test. The distractor rationale as advocated by Pearson, 2004, forms the basis for diagnosing misconceptions. The cognitive levels, difficulty levels and taxonomies as stipulated in CAPS are incorporated into the levels of understanding to provide the teacher with holistic information about the level of performance.

A more detailed unpacking of the nature of the misconceptions is addressed in the marking guidelines of each diagnostic question.

Table 2: Levels of Performance for Language MCQs

Levels of Performance	Possible Learner Error
Level 1	• Makes errors that reflect focus on decoding and retrieving facts or details that are not necessarily related to the text or question. • Learner invokes prior knowledge related to the general topic being tested, but response is not text-based. • These errors indicate that the learner is grabbing bits and pieces of information related to the text as he or she understands them, but the pieces are unrelated to the information required by the question being asked.
Level 2	• Makes errors that reflect initial understanding of facts or details in the text, but is unable to relate them to the components in the question. • They apply their limited knowledge as an overgeneralisation and therefore come to a weak conclusion or inference. • The learner may focus on literal/superficial aspects of a text and makes superficial connections to arrive at weak responses.
Level 3	• Makes errors that reflect analysis and interpretation, but conclusions or inferences arrived at are secondary or weaker ones than required for correct response. • A distractor may be related to the correct response in meaning, but be too narrow or broad given the circumstances.
Level 4	• Correct response.

Each level of performance is captured in the distractors of all the multiple-choice questions. A question will include distractors that correspond to each level of understanding set out in the table above.

When learner responses are analysed, the diagnostic distractors will reveal patterns in their understanding of the content being tested. The teacher is thus guided towards instruction that specifically addresses a learner's understanding of a concept or specific content aspect.

6. MARKING GUIDELINES

6.1 MULTIPLE CHOICE QUESTIONS (MCQs)

Marks are allocated according to the levels of understanding of the question. However, the focus of these assessments is not on scoring the learner, but rather on what the learner is able to achieve/not achieve. The marking guideline has columns indicating an answer per question, the grade level at which a question and its answer are pitched, the level of understanding, the level of performance and the mark allocation. The mark allocation is merely a guide for the learner response and should not be the focus of the task.

6.2 OPINION QUESTIONS

These questions require an opinion and a reason as a response. A scoring guide has been included to guide teachers in identifying scores of 0/1/2. The teacher is assisted in identifying and understanding the misconception and the level of skill development required to improve cognition and performance.

6.3 TRANSACTIONAL AND ESSAY WRITING DIAGNOSTIC RUBRIC

The diagnostic rubric is designed to span the grades as depicted in Table 1. The assessment criteria are Content, Language Construction and Format, Length and Planning. The competency descriptors have been developed according to grade levels and are useful in informing the teacher of how learners should be scored and awarded scores for each criterion and grade level separately. The teacher would be able to collect and report data that reveals a learner's level of competency per criterion. The teacher would for e.g. be able to say that learner X is able to write an essay with the appropriate grade level content but the language competency of this Grade 9 learner is still at Grade 7 level. The teacher would then be able to pay more attention to integrating language skills during the writing lessons.

The teacher is able to diagnose the strengths and weaknesses of the learners according to the assessment criteria set out in the rubrics. Teachers can then focus on those aspects of writing that are problematic.

6.4 LANGUAGE STRUCTURES AND CONVENTIONS

These questions require learners to apply grammar skills in context to demonstrate their level of knowledge and understanding of all language aspects assessed. This stems from the assumption that grammar is taught for constructing texts in their context of use where real language is required. As a result, the application of grammar is not restricted to the analysis of isolated sentences as it explains the way in which sentences are structured to construct whole texts that learners learn to read and write. The marking guidelines provide insight on how to mark the test using scoring guides. The learner performance levels would assist the teacher to identify learners' strengths and weaknesses and thus provide corrective measures and interventions for improved grammar usage.

7. MODERATION

Internal moderation is important in assuring that the marking criteria/guideline is consistently applied, and that there is a shared understanding of the academic standards learners are expected to achieve. There should be processes in place for assuring comparability of marks for alternative assessments. Schools may therefore determine the format for moderation as a standardisation and quality-assurance measure.

8. DATA ANALYSIS AND UTILISATION

The teacher would be able to collect data on an individual learner, a class, a grade or for the entire grade and report at each level. Further data can be collected per topic/skill/content area. The teacher is also able to use the phase test and identify at which grade the knowledge deficit is. Since this is an exercise in assessment for learning targeted interventions can be designed to address strengths and weaknesses. Teachers would be able to give feedback to parents on learning gaps, deficits and strengths per learner.

8.1 Purpose of the data analysis

After administering a test the teacher can do own diagnostic analysis to identify:-
a) The overall level of performance of the class or school;
b) Individual learners or schools that need special intervention;
c) Groups of learners or schools that need special support and
d) Subject content areas that require priority attention in teaching and learning.

8.2 Use of basic statistics for analysis

Basic statistics that can be used to summarize the data from a test include the following:-

i. Mean (often called average) - calculated by adding the scores of all the learners and dividing the sum by the number of learners. The mean is one score that is used to summarize all the scores obtained by learners in a test. A high mean score represents high performance and a low mean score represents low performance. However, the mean score does not indicate how learner scores are spread from the highest to the lowest and thus is not adequate for identifying individuals who either over-perform or under-perform.

ii. Median (or middle score) - calculated by first arranging the scores from the highest to the lowest and then determining the score that divides the data into two equal halves. Half of the learners who wrote a test will have scores above the median score and the other half will have scores below the median score. If the number of learners is an odd number the median will be a real score that sits half-way between the extreme scores, e.g. 76, 57, 49, 45 and 39 have 49 as the median score. However, if the number of learners is an even number the median will be a score that may not belong to any of the learners calculated by adding the two adjacent scores that are half-way between the extremes and dividing their sum by two (2), e.g. the median of 76, 57, 49 and 45 is calculated by adding 57 and 49 and dividing the sum by two, i.e. (57 + 49)/2 = 106/2 = 53. As can be observed, 53 is not one of the four given scores but it is the median score that sits half-way between the extreme scores, viz. 76 and 45.

The median does not show what the extreme scores, i.e. the highest and the lowest scores, are.

iii. Maximum is the highest score obtained by a learner in a test.
iv. Minimum is the lowest score obtained by a learner in a test.
v. Range is the difference between the Maximum and the Minimum scores. The larger the range, the more diverse the ability levels of the test takers while a relatively small range indicates that the class of test takers has a relatively homogeneous ability profile.

8.3 Available tools for data analysis

Tools that are available for analysis of data include pre-programmed computer software such as the SA-SAMS in schools, the Microsoft Excel programme and even hand calculators. The Microsoft Excel programme, which comes with almost every computer software, is a reasonably easy-to-use tool for performing item-level diagnostic analysis of test data. An Excel spreadsheet is arranged in columns and rows.

8.4 Preparing data for analysis on Excel

Excel makes available useful formulae to calculate basic statistics. To prepare for analysis of data from an administered test, do the following:-

i. Mark the test and write the scores obtained by each learner next to the relevant question/item number in their books or scripts;
ii. Enter learner names and other particulars (e.g. the gender of each learner) in the rows,one after another;
iii. Enter test item numbers in the columns, one after another;
iv. Enter the score of each learner on each item in the correct cell (i.e. where the relevant column and row meet);
v. Check if all data has been entered correctly (i.e. do thorough data cleaning);
vi. Use correct formulae to calculate the statistics that you want to use to summarize and analyse the test data; and
vii. Interpret the statistics in terms of what they suggest about performance of individuals in your class, performance of identifiable groups of learners (e.g. boys and girls) and performance in specific content areas.

8.5 Analysis and interpretation

To summarise the data calculate the average percentage score, the median, maximum and minimum score percentages and you may do this separately for boys and girls.To make sense of the analysis it is recommended that different colour codes be used to mark specific observations (Excel provides a wide range of colour codes) and also represent findings with appropriate graphs to enhance visual impressions to aid decision-making on where to focus improvement interventions. For instance, the following observations can be made from the analysis that has been done:

a) Overall performance

Overall performance in this class, measured through the mean score, may be e.g. 54,4% which is relatively acceptable but still leaves room for improvement. The median score for the class may be 56% which means that half of the learners obtained scores above 56% and another half obtained scores below 56%.

b) Performance spread

Although the mean and median scores were both above 50%, learner scores may range between eight percent (8%) and 100% which is a fairly wide range that suggests diverse abilities in this class. This implies that intervention strategies will have to be diversified in order to meet the learning needs of different learners, i.e. a one-size-fits-all improvement strategy will not work in this class.

c) Individual learner differences in performance

Individual learners who were identified to be particularly at risk have been indicated with e.g. red colour coding. They obtained scores below 40% and thus fall within the "Not achieved" and "Elementary achievement" levels. They require special attention in terms of teaching strategies and learning opportunities.

d) Group differences in performance

Analysis was done at two group levels, viz. boys and girls. All the summary statistics indicate that the boys performed much lower than the girls. Their mean score was 49,3% against the 60% mean score obtained by girls. The median score for the boys was four percent (4%) lower than of the girls, viz. 52% as against 56%. Boys' scores ranged between eight percent (8%) and 88% while the lowest score for the girls was 32% and the highest was 100%. It is evident that in this class boys require a different or more focused intervention than the girls.

e) Performance in specific topics or skills

The percentage scores per item indicate the items and, therefore, the topic or skill where interventions must focus.The analysis and diagnosis (from 'a' to 'e' above) identifies:-

i. Which learners need special attention?; and
ii. Which content areas require special focus? The analysis also suggests what materials will be required to improve on the identified areas, what extra support the teacher will need (if necessary), whether additional time will be required, who else should be involved in the interventions and a host of other possibilities that the data analyser may see fit in their context.

8.6 Diagnostic or error analysis

Error analysis is the study of errors in learners' responses with a view to look for possible explanations for these errors. It provides specific information about the relative skill proficiency or misconception a learner has in his/her response, in order to understand what the learner can or cannot do. It is a multifaceted activity, for the teacher, because it involves analysis of the correct, partially correct and incorrect thought processes of the learners' individual responses and thinking about possible remediating interventions that might work well.

Understanding the errors a learner or a group of learners make will determine how learners are grouped in a certain subjects to enhance effective teaching.

Note to the teacher

1. These "tests" are designed as a diagnostic assessment tool.
2. You may administer the tests according to questions.
3. You may further break down the sub-questions from different questions according to the skills/ difficulty levels/terms/grades.
4. The selection of the questions will depend on the purpose of the assessment. E.g. You may want to check whether the Grade 3 learners in your class are competent in the Grade 1 and 2 reading and phonics component. Hence you will select all the Grade 1 and 2 sub-questions from Question 1. This may form a baseline assessment which can be administered at the beginning of the year. You can then plan your lessons for your Grade 3 learners based on your diagnostic analysis of the baseline assessment. In a similar manner you can select questions according to the different CAPS components and the purpose of your assessment.

Please note that the tag above each question, as shown below, provides the following information in this order: type of text, subject component, content/concept or skill, grade level of the question, difficulty level and term (in which the content/skill is taught) e.g.:

Type of text	Components	Content/Concept/Skills	Grade	Difficulty Level	Term
Narrative	Reading and Phonics	Characters in the story	G1	E	2

It is thereafter written above each question in the format:

Narrative	Reading and Phonics	Characters in the story	G1	E	2

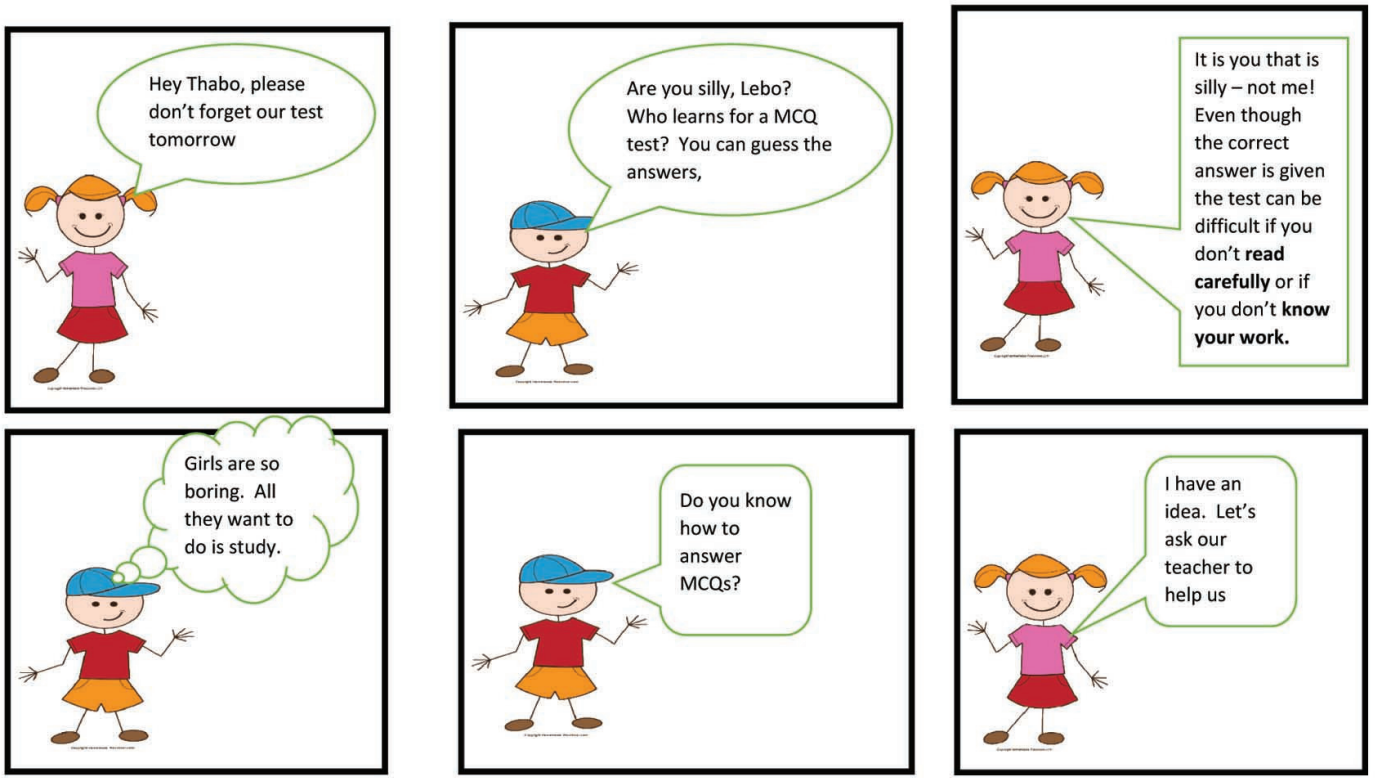
ANSWERING MULTIPLE CHOICE QUESTIONS (MCQs)

ANSWERING MULTIPLE CHOICE QUESTIONS (MCQs)



NOTE TO THE TEACHER:

1. The Structure of a MCQ

What is the number symbol for six hundred and ninety-eight? STEM

A 60098
B 6098
C 968
D 698

DISTRACTORS

EXPLANATION

STEM	QUESTION
DISTRACTORS	INCORRECT OPTIONS
KEY	ANSWER

2. Strategies for answering MCQs

2.1 Read the question carefully. Understand the question and be sure of what is expected of you. Underline the key words in the question. You may need to read the question more than once.

2.2 Try to answer the question before you check out the options. You may be required to work out the answer before you are able to choose the correct option.

2.3 Read each option cautiously. Delete the options that you are sure are incorrect, until you are left with the correct option.

2.4 Make sure that the option you have chosen matches what the question requires.

2.5 Most often there will be an option that will be obviously wrong. Eliminate this option.

2.6 Two options may sound alike. However, one of the options may be partially correct; it may be a partial answer to the question. Reread the question to make sure that the option fully answers the question.

2.7 If you are unsure of which options are incorrect, leave the question and move to the questions you are sure of. However, make sure that you come back to the question. Don't leave blanks.CHOOSE AN OPTION FOR EVERY QUESTION.

2.8 There will be only ONE correct option.

NOTE TO THE LEARNER:

1. There is no pattern in which the answers are arranged.
2. Check your work. If you make a mistake, strike out the incorrect option and circle the correct answer.
3. Do not leave any question unanswered.

PART THREE
PHASE BASED TEST ITEMS

9. ASSESSMENT ITEMS

QUESTION ONE

Read the following text carefully and answer the questions.

TEXT 1: MAGAZINE ARTICLE

YES, BUT ARE THEY REALLY FRIENDS?

1. Facebook calls contacts on their social network "friends," which in some instances can be a complete contradiction. When 13-year-olds first sign up on Facebook, they spend the first year or two trying to connect with as many people as possible so that at they can boast about the number of friends they have on the social network. It is a "badge of honour", so to speak.

2. But how many of these "friends" do they really know in the real world? When we ask young people this question in our talks and workshops, it is clear that many, if not most, of these "friends" are strangers. Accepting strangers as friends on Facebook is like hitchhiking and accepting a lift from a stranger.

3. This is risky behaviour typical of teenagers. It is often difficult for them to get their heads around the fact that many of the people they are connected to, could be posing as someone they are not - that a digital persona can lie and use pictures of someone else. A "friend" could be a 50-year-old man posing as a 16-year-old girl, for example, and your child would not have an inkling of whom they have invited into their world; and the potential danger in such an invitation. They could be exposing themselves to stalkers, predators, paedophiles and cyber-bullies, for example. These are real dangers - not to be taken lightly.

4. Make sure your children know they are making conscious choices with consequences when they invite someone to be their friend, or when they accept an invitation to be a friend on Facebook. Just because one of their friends is friends with someone does not mean they have to be as well, as a mother, who uses NetNannySocial to keep tabs on her daughter's online activities, discovered.

5. A few days ago, this mother got an alert regarding her daughter's friends on Facebook. After checking it out, she discovered that someone who had requested her daughter as a friend, was a stranger, but her daughter had accepted their quest because some of her other friends had. She thought that it was inappropriate for the 'friend', who was over the age limit, to be hanging around a teenager; so she checked around with other parents. It turned out none of these kids knew the man. They all assumed their other friends did!

6. "I did a little more digging," she said, "and discovered that the 'friend' in question lives in our neighbourhood and is on the sex-offender registry. Obviously, I shared this information with the other parents, reported my concerns to Facebook and watched my teen 'unfriend' this character."

7. Do make sure that your child knows how to "unfriend" people on Facebook and other social networks.

TEXT 4: POETRY

Read the poem and answer the questions.

Dyslexia
by Marie (age 18)

I have never tried so hard,

only to get nowhere.

Small mistakes follow me,

they change my work purposely. They must do,

Because nobody can make as many mistakes as me.

Every day there right and some days there forgotten.

On paper numbers can be easy.

In my head they are lost

My daydreams distract me

Keeping me out of reality

Why am I stuck like this?

Why am I trying so much harder to move forward and find I'm 10 steps behind everyone else?

Why am I me?

And who what can I be?

GLOSSARY
Dyslexia is a learning disability affecting reading, spelling and writing.
NOTE: Line 7 and Line 16 have language errors, as a result of the poet being dyslexic.

QUESTION FIVE
TEXT 5 - LANGUAGE STRUCTURES AND CONVENTIONS

Read the text and answer the questions.

THE LOWDOWN ON HIGH HEELS

Keeping up with fashion can have medical drawbacks.

1. Wearing high heels makes women look and feel tall and in command, but the dangers can leave them disfigured. Things such as swollen ankles and corns are just minor side effects compared with the real damage that can eat away at your health over the years.

2. "This is because feet bear all of the body's weight," says Ray Stuart, a podiatrist in Cape Town. "Your whole body mass rests on your feet and the foot is then forced into a narrow, pointed toe box, compounding the damage that can take place. This damage may not be cured later on."

3. Wearing high-heeled shoes is said to have invited new and strange health problems over the years. "Patients who suffer from unexplainable depression and emotional conditions are often advised to kick their shoes off and relax, and this usually helps - so imagine what ditching your high heels can do for your health," he advises.

4. Doctors blame high heels for knee and back problems and shortened calf muscles as well as causing an awkward, unnatural way of walking. "In time, high heels might cause enough changes in feet to stop your feet from working properly," Stuart says. Amongst the ugly results of the continued use of high heels are bunions, heel pain and toe deformities.

5. Most women admit high heels make their feet hurt-but they stick it out to appear fashionable. "They certainly make me look more professional, feminine and well - groomed," says sales consultant and self-confessed shoe addict Pontsho Lerole. "Since Boom Shaka made their debut appearance rocking in high heels, I've never been seen in running shoes or sneakers or anything less elegant. Lerole even admits to having suffered severe back pains ever since making her fashion pact.

Glossary: A podiatrist is someone who treats people with foot problems.

QUESTION 1 - NEWSPAPER REPORT

Read the passage and answer the questions that follow.

FOR THE LOVE OF READING

Zimkhita Mlanzeli, newest member of the FunDza Literacy Trust shares her story.*

1 I went to Jingqi Village, not knowing what to expect. I went to give a two-day reading and writing course to an unknown audience. I went armed with information, ready to teach but I came out a student.

2 The chief of Jingqi had heard that people who wanted to promote literacy were coming to his village. Being a wise man, the chief believed that education meant empowerment and that meant a better way of living for the community. That was why he asked his right-hand man to mobilise the community and get a team of volunteers who would be trained to run reading clubs in different villages in the area.

3 I stayed an hour's drive away from Jingqi and had to travel on the harsh, dirt roads of the Eastern Cape to get there. There is only one high school in Jingqi and seven primary schools which are far from each other in the surrounding villages. The schools have no facilities and no computers. Internet access is a luxury that only a few have via their cell phones. The library of the high school is in bad shape.

4 On the first day I spoke to the children and found that they were hungry for information. They said they did not read because their books were from the dinosaur age and they found nothing relevant in them. They are unable to use the library as the teacher who is responsible for it, keeps it locked.

5 Imagine their joy when I arrived with a box full of relevant, funky novels written for teenagers! Not only are the books written in simple English, but they address issues that challenge many teenagers. It is easy to relate to the teenage characters in the books.

6 The fifteen volunteers are amazing people. Six of the women had walked long distances to get to Jingqi. All they had were the word of the village chief and the hope that he had called them for a fruitful purpose. So, against the harsh words of their families, the ridicule of their neighbours and the 28 ºC blazing country sun, they had come in search of a better future.

7 I have never seen such passion and love for reading as I saw on the faces of the people of that area. If the love for reading can transform a community so much, imagine how it could change our country!

8 Since my trip, I have tried to capture my experience in Jingqi, but I cannot get beyond the first line. I am a writer by profession, but I cannot find the right words to express my feelings. I left Jingqi a new person, with a refreshed passion for growing communities of readers. I will reach greater heights because of the people I worked with and our wonderful sponsors who support the improvement of literacy in SA.

QUESTION 1 - TEXT 1 (NEWSPAPER ARTICLE)

NO		EXPECTED ANSWER	MARK	DIAGNOSTIC ANALYSIS	LEVEL OF UNDERSTANDING	LEVEL OF PERFORMANCEG
1.1		Eastern Cape✓ The writer states that she had to travel on the roads of the Eastern Cape to arrive at Jingqi. OR "had to travel ...roads of Eastern Cape to get there" (paragraph 3).✓	2		E
1.2		False. "not knowing" ✓ "unknown audience" ✓	2		E
1.3	A	distributes		Unrelated to text – probably influenced by learner's own prior experience of "share"		1
	B	divides		Shows some understanding of meaning but neglects to consider meaning in context.		2
	C	relates		Correct response		4
	D	says	1	Understands meaning of word but selects replacement word that is grammatically icorrect in context.	M	3
1.4	A	Internet access is not needed in Jingqi.		"luxury" is seen as an extravagant desire/indulgence & therefore not a necessity. Learner fails to consider context.		3
	B	Jingqi cannot afford internet access		correct response		4
	C	Access to the internet is wonderful.		"luxury" typically regarded as highly desirable – hence, equated to "wonderful".

				Learner appears to be responding from prior knowledge/ belief/ own experience, not the context of the article.		2
	D	Jingqi can afford internet access.	1	Opposite of intended meaning. Learner has no understanding of "luxury". Learner has not read the article OR does not understand what has been read.	D	1
1.5	A	is one of the chief's trusted officials.		Has some understanding of the given phrase but fails to differentiate between subtle differences in answers. Does not read all distracters with rigour.		3
	B	is the chief's most trusted official.		Correct response		4
	C	trusts the chief to be right.		Understand trust implied by the phrase but confuses chief's trust placed in the man with man's trust in the chief.		1
	D	who is trusted to be right.	1	Confuses position of trust suggested by "right-hand man" with powers of judgement of the man himself.	M	2
1.6	A	only had books about dinosaurs.		Interprets figurative language literally. Context neglected.		3
	B	only had outdated books.✓		Correct response.		4
	C	did not have any books.		"locked" library leads to erroneous conclusion that children had NO access to books. However, reference to the outdated books suggests that the children had access to books, albeit not ones they liked. Learner is unable to scan the text with care to respond correctly. Possible inclination to rush to a response by focusing on parts of the text, rather than the whole.		2

	D	did not like reading.	1	Confuses the dislike of outdated books with the dislike of reading in general.	M	1
1.7		1 hour ✓ "an hour's drive away" ✓ (paragraph 3)	2		M
1.8	A	hyperbole		The initial 'h' sound in the question("hungry") and the distracter ("hyperbole") may confuse learners. Secondly, an extreme condition like hunger may be linked, erroneously, with "hyperbole" because the latter denotes extreme exaggeration. This suggests a tenuous grasp of the different figures of speech denoting comparison.		2
	B	Metaphor ✓		Correct response		4
	C	simile		This is a comparison, but not constructed using 'as' or 'like' – learner understands comparison/imagery but cannot distinguish between simile and metaphor.		3
	D	irony	1	Unrelated to context. Learner does not know how to identify figures of speech.	E	1
1.9	A	angry as they had no books.		Confuses 'anger" with "hunger". Confuses own response to library being locked with that of the children – uses own experience to make conclusion.	M	3
	B	eager to read books. ✓				4
	C	in need of food.		Learner lacks skills to analyse figurative language – hence reverts to literal interpretation of figurative language.		2
	D	greedy for food.	1	Learner relies on personal, prior experience to make unrelated connection between		1 text and distracter.

1.10.		2 days ✓ "2-day reading and writing course" (paragraph 1)✓	2		E
1.11		1. The books were written in simple English.✓ 2. The content related to teenage issues/ problems/challenges.✓ 3. The characters were teenagers (easy to relate to).✓	3		M
1.12		1.12.1 D ✓ 1.12.2 A ✓ 1.12.3 B ✓	3		M
1.13		1. They walked a long distance to arrive at Jingqi. ✓ 2. The braved the discouragement/criticis m of family. ✓ 3. The withstood the mockery ("ridicule") of neighbours. ✓ 4. They suffered very hot weather to get to Jingqi. ✓ 5. They were motivated by by their belief/ hope in a better future. ✓ (Accept any THREE responses)	3		D
1.14		South Africa ✓	1		E

1.15	A	more qualified than teachers in Jingqi.		Unrelated to text. Learner compares writing to teaching – is unable to understand that these are two separate, and different, professions.		1
	B	qualified to present writing courses. ✓		The correct response.		4
	C	not qualified to write about Jingqi		Opposite of expected and related response. Learner misinterprets writer's being overwhelmed by her experience in Jinqi as being a lack of capacity/ skill to write about Jinqi.		2
	D	a professional writer based in Jingqi.	1	Learner is able to pay attention to parts of the text independently of the whole. Inability to link earlier information to concluding comments in the text -forgets that the drive from the writer's abode to Jingqi took 1 hour, indicating that the writer was NOT based in Jingqi.	D	3
						SUB-TOTAL: 25
